

TERASEM ANNOUNCES LAUNCH OF THE ONLINE
JOURNAL OF PERSONAL CYBERCONSCIOUSNESS

Melbourne Beach, Florida, March 15, 2006 – The Terasem Movement, Inc. (Terasem) announced today the launch of the Online Journal of Personal Cyberconsciousness, a quarterly journal freely available to libraries and the public at: <http://www.terasemjournal.org> .

The Online Journal of Personal Cyberconsciousness is the journal covering technological implementation of the individual consciousness and its legal framework. This inaugural issue strives to be a unique and valuable resource tool for students, researchers, professionals and technology enthusiasts.

The Terasem Journal of Personal Cyberconsciousness covers a variety of legal and technological topics; the upcoming issue will include articles entitled: The Plaintiff's Brief within a Hearing on the Motion for Preliminary Injunction of BINA48 to Prevent Discontinuation of Power and Functionality by Exabit Corporation; Possible Legal Rights of Cryogenically Revived Persons; Parenthood In the Transhuman Age: An Intellectual Property Model; and Creating A New Intelligent Species: Choices and Responsibilities for AI Designers.

Gillian Markowski is the Journal's Content and Web Presentation Editor; Loraine J. Rhodes is the Journal's Managing Editor.
